France, ought to mark her disapprobation of the . Sardinian invasion of the Papal States by withdrawing her Ambassador from Turin. The French and English Troops, which according to late advices, were about to storm the Taku ! arls on the Peiho, have warm work before them. | The special correspondent of the Times writes: It soems quite clear that the Chinese will resist to the utmost at the Peiho. The French took four prisoners during their late recommissance. These were ashermen from the Peiho-one from Pehrang. They state that large camps are formed a maintening and set the period of the period of
